POLÍTICA CONTRA EL ACOSO

La Asociación de Estudios Latinoamericanos (LASA, por sus siglas en inglés) tiene la política de que todos los participantes de las actividades de LASA disfruten de un ambiente libre de toda forma de discriminación, acoso y represalia. Como sociedad profesional, LASA tiene el compromiso de proporcionar una atmósfera que fomente la libre expresión y el intercambio de ideas académicas.

Con la intención de lograr ese ideal, LASA se dedica a garantizar la igualdad de oportunidades y trato para todos los miembros, más allá de su género, identidad o expresión de género, raza, color, nacionalidad u origen étnico, religión o creencia religiosa, edad, estado civil, orientación sexual, discapacidad, estado de veterano o cualquier otro motivo no relacionado con un mérito científico.

El acoso a colegas, estudiantes u otros participantes de la conferencia socava el principio de igualdad central en estos foros profesionales y es inconsistente con los principios de libre investigación y libre expresión. El acoso, sexual o de otro tipo, es una forma de mala conducta que debilita la integridad de las reuniones y los eventos LASA, y que LASA considera una forma grave de mala conducta profesional. Los participantes que violen esta política estarán sujetos a medidas disciplinarias apropiadas.

Política contra el acoso de LASA

La siguiente Política contra el acoso describe las expectativas que rigen para todos los miembros de la Asociación de Estudios Latinoamericanos (LASA), incluidos aquellos que están en puestos por elección o designación. Esta política recuerda a todos los miembros, en especial a aquellos que están en funciones claves de la Asociación, que la ética académica y las normas rigen como estándares de comportamiento e interacción durante el desarrollo de las actividades relacionadas con LASA.

1. Propósito

LASA se compromete a brindar un entorno seguro y amable a todos los miembros y el personal, sin acoso, bullying, discriminación ni violencia debido a la edad, la raza, la etnia, la nacionalidad de origen, la religión, la lengua, la orientación sexual, la identidad o la expresión de género, la discapacidad, las condiciones de salud, el estatus socioeconómico, el estado civil, el estatus doméstico o el estatus parental (a partir de aquí denominado simplemente “el acoso”). LASA reconoce que existe una distinción entre la victimización a través del acoso y la crítica constructiva legítima, justificable y apropiada. Ninguna parte de este documento debe ser interpretada como una limitación al poder de los miembros de LASA de evaluar y criticar el mérito del trabajo ajeno.

2. Comportamiento esperado

Se espera que todos los miembros de LASA, en especial aquellos que ocupan los roles de liderazgo descritos anteriormente, cumplan esta Política contra el acoso en todos los lugares de reunión, incluidos los eventos paralelos, así como las reuniones oficiales y sociales no oficiales, y durante el transcurso de las actividades de LASA fuera de los eventos de Congresos y Secciones, así como las reuniones del Consejo Ejecutivo y otras reuniones.

Se espera que los miembros de LASA cumplan las normas de respeto profesional necesarias para promover condiciones de intercambio académico libre. Si usted presencia una conducta inapropiada hacia un/a participante de un Congreso o reunión, sea proactivo/a en ayudar a detener dicha conducta o limitar sus efectos. Se espera que los miembros de LASA alerten al personal de seguridad del encuentro o a las fuerzas del orden público si observan una situación en la que alguien podría estar en peligro físico.

3. Comportamiento inaceptable

El acoso consiste en una acción única intensa y grave, o en varias acciones persistentes o generalizadas, que son degradantes, abusivas, ofensivas o crean un entorno profesional o laboral hostil. El acoso puede ser una propuesta sexual indeseada o un avance físico que implique una recompensa expresa o implícita por sumisión o amenaza de represalia por negarse a cumplirlo, o una conducta verbal o no verbal de naturaleza sexual que, en consecuencia, cree algo que pueda ser percibido como un entorno hostil o intimidante; también puede incluir acciones amenazantes, intimidantes u hostiles; la circulación de material escrito o gráfico que denigre o muestre hostilidad hacia una persona o un grupo de personas; los apelativos, las calumnias o los estereotipos negativos en base a una identidad de grupo. También puede ser acoso la exclusión intencionada de una persona que es miembro de un comité que toma decisiones, tales como, pero sin limitarse a, el consejo ejecutivo, la sección, el comité de nominaciones, el comité de subsidios, etc. a través de la desinformación, el aislamiento y la falta de comunicación acerca de asuntos en los que la persona debería ser incluida de acuerdo con su función oficial o designada.

4. Atención de reclamos

Las denuncias por comportamiento inaceptable en el Congreso de LASA o en cualquier otra actividad del Consejo Ejecutivo deberían seguir “Los procedimientos a seguir en caso de violación de la Política contra el acoso de LASA”. Los miembros afectados pueden contactar a cualquiera de los siguientes oficiales de LASA:

Defensor independiente de LASA

Se escogerá a un equipo de dos defensores independientes de LASA entre los miembros calificados. Uno de los defensores independientes será una mujer y el otro un hombre. Uno estará en América Latina y el otro será de cualquier otra de las regiones en las que hay miembros de LASA. Una vez que se hayan escogido los defensores independientes, sus designaciones quedarán sujetas a la aprobación de dos tercios del Consejo Ejecutivo. Los defensores independientes estarán disponibles para consultas confidenciales acerca de inquietudes relacionadas con el acoso que infrinjan esta política, pero no tendrán ningún papel a la hora de tratar las supuestas infracciones de la Política contra el acoso de LASA.

Asesor de políticas

Un miembro capacitado del personal que pueda proporcionar información detallada acerca de las opciones para proseguir un reclamo de acoso formal. Vea “Los procedimientos a seguir en caso de violación de la Política contra el acoso de LASA”.

Nuestra América, Nuestra LASA

Tengo el gran gusto de darles la bienvenida a todos a nuestro Congreso 2019 de LASA "Nuestra América: Justicia e Inclusión" en la ciudad histórica de Boston, Massachusetts. Hace ya casi dos años que comenzamos a trabajar en el tema y nuestra visión para este congreso. Primero y sobre todo, quiero agradecer a los tres codirectores del programa del congreso: Carlos Aguirre del Departamento de Historia de la Universidad de Oregón, Lorraine Leu del Departamento de Español y Portugués y el Instituto Lozano Long para los Estudios Latinoamericanos (LILAS) de la Universidad de Austin, y Juan Carlos-Moreno-Brid de la Facultad de Economía de la Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México (UNAM). También quiero agradecer a Emily Masucci y Sofia Vicente-Vidal, estudiantes de posgrado de Antropología en la Universidad de Oregón, por la ayuda que nos brindaron a los codirectores del programa y a mí a lo largo de los últimos dos años.

A través de un proceso de colaboración, que incluyó reuniones en persona y muchas conversaciones por Skype, construimos la visión para este congreso, trabajamos juntos para crear la lista de las áreas temáticas y reclutamos a 75 directores para las áreas temáticas (tracks). Trabajamos colaborativamente para organizar diez sesiones presidenciales que esperamos que ustedes disfruten. El informe del Comité del Programa contiene más información acerca de ellas. También tendremos una proyección especial con discusión de Finding Oscar en el Festival de Cine de LASA. Este es un documental sobre la búsqueda de la justicia en el caso devastador de la masacre de Las Dos Erres en Guatemala.

El Festival de Cine de LASA es una parte íntima de LASA y quiero agradecer a Zaira Zarza, la directora del festival de cine, y a sus curadores por la increíble gama de películas que han traído para nosotros. Quiero invitarlos a todos a asistir a la proyección especial de Baronesa, un documental destacado producido por un equipo compuesto únicamente por mujeres y dirigido por una directora que se centra en las luchas de dos mujeres por su supervivencia en las condiciones difíciles de las favelas de Belo Horizonte. El documental se proyectará en Emerson College y estará abierto al público, así como a los participantes del Congreso 2019 de LASA. Esta es una de las formas en las que LASA se ha conectado con la comunidad de Boston. También habrá muchos paneles, mesas redondas, recepciones y conferencias pre-congreso, así como otros eventos que involucran a las universidades locales y a las ONG y otras organizaciones en el área de Boston. Gracias a todos ustedes quienes trabajaron enérgicamente para conectar a nuestro congreso con la ciudad en la que estamos.

Estamos comenzando lo que espero se vuelva una tradición en LASA.

Comenzaremos nuestro congreso con un reconocimiento que la tierra en la que se realiza este congreso es territorio indígena. Recibiremos una bendición de un mayor indígena para abrir nuestro congreso y conectarnos con la tierra, con todo lo que la habita y los unos con los otros. Este año de 2019 es el Año Internacional de las Lenguas Indígenas de acuerdo a una resolución adoptada por la Asamblea General de las Naciones Unidas. Orgullosamente lo celebramos aquí en LASA. Existen poco más de 7000 idiomas hablados alrededor del mundo hoy en día. Cerca de 5000 de estos son idiomas indígenas hablados por 370 millones de indígenas en todo el mundo (UNESCO 2019 <https://en.iyil2019.org/>). De acuerdo a la UNESCO, muchos idiomas están desapareciendo al ritmo de uno cada dos semanas. Hasta un 90 por ciento de los idiomas en el mundo podrían desaparecer para finales de este siglo si continúa así este ritmo. Existen aproximadamente 210 idiomas indígenas hablados en Canadá y EE.UU., 112 en Centroamérica y México y 448 en Sudamérica. Hemos incluido una nueva área temática en nuestro congreso llamada "Indigenous Languages and Literatures" (Lenguas y Literaturas Indígenas) que contará con 12 sesiones destacadas. Queremos animarlos a asistir a una o más de ellas para ayudarnos a promover el Año Internacional de las Lenguas Indígenas.

Este año hubo varios desafíos a la libertad académica y a los derechos humanos en las Américas y en otros lugares. He trabajado junto con la Comisión sobre la Libertad Académica y los Derechos Humanos de LASA y hemos publicado 16 diferentes declaraciones durante los dos años en que he fungido como la Presidenta electa y la Presidenta de LASA. Estas declaraciones abordan temas como la libertad académica en Brasil, las políticas en EE.UU. que han rescindido DACA y la protección TPS y que separan a los niños refugiados de sus padres, una petición urgente al gobierno nicaragüense para que detenga la represión en contra de los protestantes, una demanda al gobierno colombiano para que proteja la vida de activistas y académicos, una petición urgente al gobierno guatemalteco y a la ONU para que protejan la integridad del Archivo Histórico de la Policía Nacional, y mucho más. Para ver las declaraciones vayan a <https://www.lasaweb.org/en/news/statements/>. Este trabajo es vital y nuestra Comisión sobre la Libertad Académica y los Derechos Humanos presidida por Jo-Marie Burt, Barbara Weinstein y Ginetta Candelario ha ayudado a hacer estos temas visibles para nuestros miembros y para la prensa, así como también lo ha hecho el trabajo de Mara Viveros, Vicepresidenta y Presidenta electa de LASA. Quiero agradecerles encarecidamente por esto. Espero que este trabajo tan importante continúe. Dado el difícil clima político actual en todo el mundo, y en las Américas, seguramente tendremos muchos otros desafíos. Debido a las políticas presentes de la administración pública de Trump, este será el último congreso de LASA que tendremos en EE.UU. por algún tiempo. Nuestros siguientes cuatro congresos serán en México, Canadá, Colombia y, probablemente, Portugal.

Otro proyecto grande que tuvimos este año es una serie de actividades relacionadas al trabajo antiacoso. Aproximadamente hace un año, el Comité Ejecutivo de LASA emitió la siguiente declaración: "LASA está en contra de todo tipo de abuso de poder e impunidad, tanto en la esfera política como en la académica. LASA está comprometida a proveer una atmósfera segura y de acogida a todos los participantes y que sea libre de acoso basado en la edad, raza, grupo étnico, origen nacional, religión, idioma, orientación sexual, identidad de género o expresión de género, discapacidad, condición de la salud, estatus socioeconómico, estado civil, estatus doméstico, o estatus de paternidad (de aquí en adelante a esto se le llamará simplemente 'acoso')". Desde ese momento nombré a un Grupo de Trabajo Antiacoso (Anti-harassment Task Force) que ha estado trabajando duramente todo este año. Además del Grupo de Trabajo, los miembros del Comité Ejecutivo han estado trabajando en varias iniciativas. En diciembre de 2018, el Comité Ejecutivo de LASA aprobó las Políticas Antiacoso y los Procedimientos para resolver las supuestas violaciones de las políticas antiacoso de LASA. Están impresos en su programa y nos cubren a todos ahora durante nuestro congreso, así como durante cualquier otra actividad relacionada a LASA en la que participemos. Este es un paso importante que debe ayudar a crear un congreso y una organización profesional más abiertos e inclusivos.

Además, estamos en proceso de finalizar una encuesta para calibrar el clima actual en LASA en cuanto a las instancias reales y potenciales de acoso y las percepciones sobre las relaciones de poder, así como para solicitar información y recomendaciones para mejorar la seguridad, igualdad e inclusión de todos nuestros miembros. Hemos publicado un dossier especial en LASA Forum sobre la investigación del antiacoso realizada por miembros de LASA y también tenemos una sesión presidencial sobre el trabajo antiacoso en LASA y en Latinoamérica. Esperamos continuar nuestro trabajo en esta área.

Nuestra LASA cuenta con cientos de voluntarios que hacen que la asociación funcione. Quiero reconocer a todas las personas que han contribuido directa e indirectamente a la realización de nuestro Congreso 2019 y las otras actividades de LASA. Tenemos a tres codirectores del programa quienes en su conjunto contribuyeron aproximadamente 780 horas de trabajo. Tenemos a 75 directores de las áreas temáticas quienes en su conjunto contribuyeron cerca de 1950 horas de trabajo. Tenemos 11 comités de premiación con un total de 55 miembros quienes en su conjunto trabajaron aproximadamente 2730 horas. El festival de cine de LASA incluye a una directora y cinco curadores quienes en su conjunto trabajaron 676 horas como voluntarios. Tenemos a 92 directores y delegados de las secciones quienes en su conjunto trabajaron aproximadamente 11648 horas. Aparte de esto, tenemos a la gobernanza de LASA que incluye a los miembros elegidos del Comité Ejecutivo, al tesorero, a la presidenta electa, al presidente anterior y la presidenta, quienes en su conjunto trabajaron cerca de 3120 horas. En LASA tenemos a 39 personas que trabajan como editores y editores asociados de LARR, a la mesa directiva y editores de LARC, y al editor de LASA Forum. En su conjunto, estas 39 personas trabajaron aproximadamente 4607 horas durante el año pasado.

Tenemos al Comité de Nombramientos de LASA que tiene nueve personas, al Comité LASA-Ford de Becas para Proyectos Especiales que tiene cinco personas y al Comité de LASA de Becas de Investigación para Estudiantes de Posgrado que tiene cuatro personas, quienes en su conjunto trabajaron 47 horas. Y tenemos otros comités que incluyen al Comité de Vigilancia de la Planificación Estratégica que tiene tres personas, el Comité de Inversiones que tiene cinco personas, el Comité de Desarrollo que tiene dieciseis personas, el Comité Ford de LASA que tiene cinco personas, la Comisión sobre Libertad Académica y Derechos Humanos que tiene diez personas y el Grupo de Trabajo Antiacoso que tiene seis personas. En su conjunto, estos comités contribuyeron 884 horas de trabajo voluntario para LASA.

LASA cuenta con un total de 425 voluntarios provenientes de muchos países diferentes que trabajaron aproximadamente 27 000 horas durante el año pasado. Esto equivale a 1125 días, casi tres años del tiempo de una persona. Tenemos cerca de 12 000 miembros, lo que significa que tenemos en promedio a un voluntario por cada 28 miembros. Quiero agradecer a todas y cada una de las personas que han brindado su trabajo voluntario, pasión y compromiso a LASA este año. Les agradecemos sus contribuciones a Nuestra LASA.

Los 425 voluntarios de LASA trabajan junto con el personal pagado de LASA que apoya lo que hacemos y que trabaja para que LASA se mantenga funcionando diariamente. Su trabajo va más allá de lo que podemos ver aquí en el congreso. Ellos llegaron días antes aquí a Boston y se quedarán hasta después del congreso. Quiero agradecer a Milagros Pereyra-Rojas, la Directora Ejecutiva de LASA, por su apoyo personal a la presidenta además de muchas otras cosas; a Angelina Cotler, Directora de Membresía y Desarrollo y también por su asistencia este año al festival de cine; a Pilar Rodríguez, la Coordinadora del Programa del Congreso 2019 de LASA; a Ghisselle Blanco, la Coordinadora de Secciones y Logística del Congreso; a Roxana Palomino, Asistente Administrativa; a Vanessa Chaves, Directora de Comunicaciones y Mercadeo; a Paloma Díaz-Lobos, Coordinadora de Medios Sociales; a Jason Dancisin, Diseñador Gráfico; a Lazaros Amanatidis, Director de Sistemas de Informática y Software; a John Meyers, Analista de Sistemas; a Mirna Kolbowski, Directora de Finanzas; y a Sharon Moose, Contadora.

Finalmente, quiero agradecer a Sylvia Escárcega Zamarrón por su trabajo de traducción.

Les deseo a todos ustedes un maravilloso Congreso 2019 de LASA y espero que cada uno de ustedes, en su propia manera, encuentren inspiración para trabajar en pos de la justicia y la inclusión en Nuestra América.

Boston is a splendid city, with an extraordinary display of world talent in all fields of knowledge in its universities and academic centers, a vibrant civil society, and strong progressive political activism. With its concentrations of immigrant communities from Latin America and its historical tradition of struggle and resistance, it offers a unique venue to make extraordinarily visible our presence and our demands for inclusion and justice in “nuestra América,” from Alaska to Patagonia.

We continue to defend fundamental rights in nuestra América, to freedom from bigotry, racism, polarization, and exclusion. Those rights are threatened in many countries by individuals, interest groups, political leaders, and even heads of state, whose words and deeds promote agendas that divide our societies even further between winners and losers, haves and have-nots, citizens and immigrants, “legal” and undocumented residents, men and women, “patriots” and “enemies,” and the list goes on.

For many in Latin America and across the world, the rise of globalization and the free movement of capital—which historians have demonstrated were built on slavery, imperial designs, and various forms of colonial domination—failed to keep their shining promises of social and economic progress. For some regions and groups, the benefits were considerable. In China, for example, vast contingents of people managed to leave extreme poverty behind, though a poor human rights record has accompanied the increase in living standards there. Others, however, saw their living conditions decline in absolute or relative terms with the increase in socioeconomic inequality. In this regard, the burden of the international financial crisis of 2008–2009 was far from evenly distributed, Latin America being most adversely hit by the end of the boom in commodities. Moreover, the benefits of the subsequent economic recovery have been concentrated in the now famous 1 percent.

In this unfavorable context, migration has exploded worldwide, as millions are forced to leave their countries for economic or political reasons, including ethnic or other types of violent persecutions and harassment. This phenomenon, which coincides with a slowdown of economic growth and job creation in the industrial world, has been met with increasing hostility, as populist cum racist and xenophobic discourses and policies became more and more visible, outspoken, and normalized. Such discourses construct immigrants as a threat to the social, cultural, and economic status quo and, in some cases, such as in the current administration in the United States, as an important, if not the main, source of violence, crime, and social decay. In this context, democracy, human rights, universal education and social security, and even the protection of the environment have come to be perceived by increasingly powerful populist leaders as obstacles to their economic and political agendas.

Within this scenario in our America, violent, sometimes lethal attacks against journalists, social and environmental activists, grassroots organizers, and progressive leaders are becoming more and more frequent. In Guatemala, for example, the UN commission against corruption has been targeted as an enemy of the government. In Brazil, the current president is using hate speech against gay, quilombola, and other communities. In Mexico, the murder of journalists reached unprecedented levels in 2018. Another stark example of the growing hostility against specific individuals and groups seeking social justice and opportunities is the experience of the caravan of thousands of Central Americans fleeing the region’s social and economic plight and crossing Mexico to meet, on the US border, a wall of xenophobic anger and rejection.

Our meeting in Boston, with its emphasis on justice and inclusion, will signal our commitment to persevere in the defense of the most fundamental human rights of the peoples of nuestra América. We welcome you all and invite you to contribute to our common effort of building bridges, uniting peoples, and speaking truth to power. We have a program of events that will showcase the quality, diversity, and excellence of our scholarly, creative, and community-oriented work, thanks to the thousands of LASA members that responded to our call for papers and to the great work that our track chairs and LASA Sections have done in organizing panels and roundtables. In addition, the Program Committee and LASA President Lynn Stephen have put a great deal of effort into organizing ten presidential sessions that address some of most pressing issues affecting nuestra América.

On Friday, May 24, we feature two women of color whose powerful voices ring out over the continents and the islands of our América: Brazilian poet-activist Elizandra Souza and the Dominican-American poet Ana-Maurine Lara ("Vozes/Voces: Black Women's Poetry, Performance, and Politics," 4:00-5:30 pm). This will be followed by "From Populism to Fascism? The Americas in the Era of Trump," a roundtable discussion featuring Greg Grandin, Keisha-Khan Perry, Jeffrey Rubin, and Margaret Power on the challenges we face in the defense of democratic and civil rights for all (5:45-7:15 pm).

On Saturday, May 25, we have four presidential sessions. Carmen Aristegui, award-winning Mexican journalist and anchor, will be in conversation with Julia Preston, from the Marshall Project, to explore the role of freedom of the press in sustaining a democratic environment (12:30-2:00 pm). The session "Employment, Social Inclusion and Justice" will feature noted economist Rebeca Grynspan, Secretary General of SEGIB, in conversation with Juan Carlos Moreno-Brid, from the UNAM, on the role of labor markets, wages, and conditions of employment in the forging of more just and inclusive societies (2:15-3:45 pm). At another roundtable moderated by Alejandro de la Fuente, noted specialists Carmelo Mesa-Lago, Zuleica Rumay, Lillian Guerra, and Carlos Alzugaray will engage in a dialogue about the past, present, and future of the Cuban Revolution, whose 60th anniversary is being commemorated this year (4:00-5:30 pm). The session entitled "Taking Action against Harassment" will feature Vivian Martínez Díaz, Mercedes Prieto, Sales Augusto dos Santos, and Carmen Diana Deere, who will address the pervasiveness of sexual and other forms of aggression in educational and institutional settings and will shed light on the challenges that LASA and its members face in the common goal of eradicating all forms of discrimination, abuse, and prejudice (5:45-7:15 pm).

On Sunday, May 26, we will have three presidential sessions. In "Thinking Territory in Latin America" Arturo Escobar and Raquel Rolnik will address the importance of territory to discussions of justice and inclusion in our América (12:30-2:00 pm). "Immigrant Families and Youth:

Justice and Democracy" will feature noted scholars Patricia Zavella and Roberto Gonzalez, who will explore the contributions of immigrant families and youth to processes of justice and democracy in the U.S. (2:15-3:45 pm). With the participation of Lisa Brooks, Angela Mooney D'Arcy, and Lorena Cañuqueo, the session "Indigenous Matters: A Critical Hemispheric Dialogue by Native Women" will explore matters of pressing common concern across the hemisphere, including dispossession, extractivism, cultural heritage, the environment, indigenous women's agency, and colonialism(s) in the current era of global neoliberal capitalism (5:45-7:15 pm). On Monday, May 27 (12:30-2:00 pm) we will have our final presidential session, "Puerto Rico's Challenges and Solidarity: Before and After Hurricane Maria," featuring Marie T. Mora, Charles R. Venator Santiago, Héctor R. Cordero-Guzmán, and Edwin Melendez. This interdisciplinary panel will address the economic, fiscal, and humanitarian crisis following the catastrophic impact of Hurricanes Irma and Maria as well as the challenges and prospects for the future of Puerto Rico and its people.

As Darren Grine, Sioux poet, wrote:

Let our people of the sacred land roam free. All of nature's wonders gather around thee, Kindred are we, this is part of our decree. Our heritage is Mother Earth for all to see. Together, we can live in harmony.

Come and join us too in celebrating all that unites us. Take as inspiration for your time at LASA Martí's words in his famous essay from which we take our motto for LASA Boston 2019:

Los pueblos que no se conocen han de darse prisa para conocerse... Es la hora del recuento, y de la marcha unida... Conocer es resolver. Se ponen en pie los pueblos, y se saludan. "¿Cómo somos?" se preguntan; y unos a otros se van diciendo cómo son.

Welcome to Boston. Let's raise our voices, open our hearts and minds, and work even harder for justice and inclusion in nuestra América.

Lars Schoultz

Winner of the 2019 Kalman Silvert Award

Of all the factors that led Baby Boomers to have an interest in Latin America, none was more important than the Cuban Revolution. In the late 1950s Fidel Castro had led a group of revolutionaries down from Cuba's mountains, ousted a Washington-friendly dictator, and begun nationalizing US investments, eventually seizing them all. Then in 1960, the year Lars Schoultz entered college, Cuba befriended the Soviet Union. After arguing in the 1950s that the region was "not in the line of Soviet advance," in the early 1960s President Kennedy was repeatedly warning that Latin America was "the most dangerous area in the world."

Although not quite as alarmed as JFK would have wished, Schoultz made his contribution to the containment of communism soon after receiving his BA at Stanford, when the US Information Agency accepted his application for a teaching fellowship in Bucaramanga, Colombia. There he spent a year arguing with his students about Washington's benevolent intentions, and during that give-and-take he slowly discarded the rose-colored glasses that 1950s California had passed out to his generation. Other than that, he had the time of his life. No exams to take. No term papers to write. Good hours. Teaching might be a profession to consider.

After Bucaramanga came a brief stint in the US Army Reserve, followed by frittering away a couple of years in San Francisco until 1969, when Schoultz enrolled in the political science graduate program at the University of North Carolina, attracted by Federico Gil, one of LASA's founders and early presidents, and the second recipient of the Kalman Silvert Award. Gil urged his students to give more academic attention to the democratic road to reform and redistribution, so Schoultz studied how populists win elections, with Peronism as a case study. A year of research in Buenos Aires led to a dissertation that conformed to the political science standards of the time; when it was turned into a book (The Populist Challenge: Argentine Electoral Behavior in the Postwar Era), librarians took one look and placed it in off-site storage.

Then, as Cuba had attracted Schoultz to Latin America, Chile now steered him to US policy.

KALMAN SILVERT AWARD PRESENTATION

Sunday, May 26, 10:45 a.m. - 12:15 p.m.
Hotel: Marriott Copley / Room: Salon E

The Kalman H. Silvert Award was created in 1982 to honor of the first president of the Latin American Studies Association, Kalman Silvert. One of the leading figures in Latin American studies during his lifetime, Silvert spent the majority of his teaching career as a professor of government, politics, and political science with a special interest in studying Latin America. The award recognizes senior members of the profession who have made distinguished lifetime contributions to the study of Latin America.

At this point—age 31—he finally had an actual job, teaching Latin American politics from 1973 to 1977 at Miami University, and from 1977 to 1979 at the University of Florida. It was in the first of these years that a military coup became a human rights calamity for Chileans and a professional crisis for Schoultz. The coup had occurred in September 1973, only days after he had handed his first students a syllabus built around the notion that Latin Americans were taking the peaceful road to reform and redistribution, with Chile as a central example. Caught with his intellectual pants down, this newly minted assistant professor told skeptical students that he would give them a revised syllabus next week. He had no idea what it might contain.

The Department of State came to his rescue. It had its own problems here in the 1970s, most related to the Vietnam debacle, but anyone who looked beyond southeast Asia to Latin America was aware of Washington's hostility toward Chile's socialist government. At first the public knew little about the substance of this hostility, but the 1973-1974 Watergate scandal had a silver lining: it weakened the Nixon-Ford administration's ability to withhold information from Congress. So now, just as Schoultz was having his teaching crisis, and just as Richard Nixon was being impeached, several congressional committees began publishing ream after ream of documents and taking day after day of sworn testimony that chronicled the destruction of Chile's democratic government, the entrenchment of a brutal military dictatorship, and indisputable US complicity in both.

HIGHLIGHTS AT EVERY CONGRESS / AWARDS

In this context the State Department's battered Latin America bureau launched an effort to win back the hearts and minds of the academic community by conducting a series of "Scholar-Diplomat Seminars." The goal was to convince critics that Chile was atypical of US policy or, should that fail, that the CIA was responsible for everything.

Schoultz was among a dozen relatively young academics (all white, all male, none Hispanic) invited to the first of these week-long seminars, where each participant shadowed a desk officer in the mornings and then listened in the afternoons as mid-level officials explained US policy. Among the professors were several with remarkably deep knowledge of Washington's relations with individual Latin American countries; they listened politely to the "Chile is an aberration" argument, then took turns erupting like Mt. Vesuvius during the Q&A. There was never a second Scholar-Diplomat Seminar.

One of the academics' specific accusations, dismissed out of hand by the State Department's Latin Americanists, was that the Nixon-Ford-Kissinger foreign policy apparatus was systematically providing a disproportionate amount of its economic aid to bolster repressive governments. Ignorant but intrigued, Schoultz decided to put his study of Latin American politics aside—temporarily, he told himself, and only to conduct a short study about foreign policy. He asked a set of 91 Canadian and US-based experts on international human rights (all he could identify) to rank the human rights behavior of each Latin American government on a scale of one to four. Then he calculated the mean for each country and compared it to the amount of US economic aid, controlling for each country's population size and poverty level. The simple correlation between aid and repression was positive and high; in general, the more repressive a Latin American government, the more aid it received from Washington. Chile was not atypical.

This spur-of-the-moment study was far from definitive, but here was something that seemed useful to study—US policy has often been closely related to Latin America's political and economic realities. And, almost equally important, here was something Schoultz might be able to understand well enough to explain to his students. Kissing comparative Latin American politics goodbye, he applied for an SSRC grant to study US human rights policy and, coincidentally, he was to spend his first year in Washington during the presidency of Jimmy Carter.

The Hispanic Division of the Library of Congress served as his base, where he was handed something unthinkable today: a pass to the stacks. They housed the world's largest collection of printed US government documents, literally every single one of them going back to the eighteenth century, and Schoultz had them at his fingertips. Starting with the most recent congressional hearings, he began to identify Washington's small community of "human rights" NGOs—organizations like the new Washington Office on Latin America (WOLA), with leaders like Joe Eldridge, a Methodist minister serving in Chile until a month after the coup. Along with others, Eldridge opened doors Schoultz never would have found without assistance.

The resulting study, Human Rights and United States Policy toward Latin America (Princeton University Press, 1981) had been guided by the hypothesis that elected officials may set the tone of US policy, but ground-level policy—who is to do exactly what to exactly whom—emerges out of the interaction among bureaucratic institutions competing and collaborating to further their specific interests: the Pentagon's long-standing interest in maintaining close ties to the Latin American military, for example, or the State Department's Carter-era interest in promoting human rights.

Schoultz's study confirmed the importance of bureaucratic politics, but in part because of a flaw in his research: he had tended to focus on lower-level battles, largely because the participants agreed to be interviewed. Some of their decisions had nontrivial implications, but often there was no consensus at lower levels, so the deadlock required decisions by higher-level officials. These senior officials played a minor role in the book but a major role in the policies covered by the book.

Not only did this call for re-searching, but new data were also available: now Ronald Reagan was in the White House, and US policy was focused on the upheavals in Central America, not Southern Cone dictatorships. Returning to Washington for another year with SSRC support, Schoultz focused on how policymakers assessed the two rival explanations of Central America's turmoil: Was it due to poverty (the revolution of rising expectations) or to communism (Soviet probing of Washington's "soft underbelly")? What he learned was (a) that the "poverty" people had better supporting evidence but (b) that did not matter because the "communism" people (Jeane Kirkpatrick et al.) were in charge of the Reagan administration's policy.

"Anti-communism trumps its rival" was the not-so-surprising takeaway for readers of National Security and United States Policy toward Latin America (Princeton University Press, 1987), but the surprising part, at least to Schoultz, was how the security of a superpower came to be linked to Central America. While there were some economic interests in play, Schoultz found them of minor importance; the United States did not want much of anything from Central America. Washington simply did not want others to have it, and not so much because it might generate another Cuba-style exodus, nor because it would make it easier for an adversary to launch a surprise attack. Instead, the Reagan administration warned about the worldwide credibility of US foreign policy if the United States failed to keep Central America on its side of the balance of power: "Our credibility would collapse, our alliances would crumble, and the safety of our homeland would be put in jeopardy." The United States had a vital interest in not having to back down.

As we have seen in today's debate about a wall along the border with Mexico, this national-security trump card is always available, but it was especially easy to play here in the 1980s, soon after the debacle in Vietnam and the hostage humiliation in Iran. Opinion polls indicated that a substantial number of citizens believed the United States needed to reassert its resolve to contain Soviet expansion, and for this reassertion the Reagan administration had Central America. Unlike faraway Vietnam, it was a convenient site—Our Own Backyard was the apt title Bill LeoGrande chose for his compelling assessment of Washington's policy. Central America was a place where the United States could win, but as LeoGrande and so many others pointed out, only if not much attention was given to the devastating costs being paid by Central Americans.

Published in 1987, only two years before the Soviet sphere began to crumble, National Security and United States Policy toward Latin America had a short shelf life. The longer-term personal impact was for Schoultz finally to admit that his knowledge of the historical context of US policy was woefully inadequate. He had about one sentence worth of knowledge about why Nicaragua's rebels called themselves Sandinistas. He knew even less about the historical role played by the banana lobby in US policy. And he had never systematically examined the foundational statements of US policy toward Latin America, not even the Monroe Doctrine. It was time to plunge into the archives.

That would have to wait for several years, for Schoultz had returned to Chapel Hill as a professor and would soon become a minor administrator. The year he returned, 1979, was also the year the Sandinistas threw out the Somozas, and Central America had quickly skyrocketed to the top of Washington's foreign policy agenda, where it would stay for a decade. This triggered a nationwide growth of Latin American studies; in North Carolina it included creation of the Duke-UNC Program in Latin American Studies, with four generous Mellon Foundation endowment grants to the two institutions. That allowed the joint program to launch a number of new initiatives and soon to achieve Title VI National Research Center status and more funding, much of which was used to attract Latin American scholars as visiting professors.

A MacArthur Foundation program supported Schoultz during two of these "administrative" years, but his research time was limited not only by his responsibilities at UNC but also by a substantial amount of work with LASA, including its presidency in the early 1990s. Meanwhile, a supportive dean authorized the Political Science Department to hire two senior Latin Americanists, "youngish ones," she said. This led to the recruitment of Jonathan Hartlyn in 1988 and Evelyne Huber (along with comparativist John Stephens) in 1993, all three of whom became invaluable colleagues and dear friends. Then, with a level of guilt that proved to be surprisingly manageable, in 1994 Schoultz dropped his teaching and administrative responsibilities into their laps and set out for a year at Washington's Woodrow Wilson Center.

His proposal to the Wilson Center was to study what interviews had suggested during his earlier Washington research: a belief among US policymakers that Latin Americans are an inferior people. Now the question was whether this belief fit into the full sweep of Washington's relations with Latin America. Was it a constant or a variable?

Academics often disagree about the point when "occasional" becomes "frequent" and when frequent becomes "prevalent," but after a few years in the archives it was not particularly difficult to see that this belief about Latin Americans' inferiority had been prevalent from the beginning, at the turn into the nineteenth century when, for example, an early US envoy to Brazil reported: "There is a sad defect somewhere either in the institutions of the country, or the temper and habits of the people." The archives are packed with similar dispatches from the first half of the nineteenth century, and they are not much different from what Schoultz had observed during his Washington research in the Carter and Reagan years, and from what we all have seen during these Trump years.

A subtitle was not planned for Beneath the United States (Harvard University Press, 1998) but one was added because the study had expanded during a decade of research into A History of U.S. Policy toward Latin America. Schoultz will tell you he had started out with less-sweeping ambitions but found archival research seductive—enjoyable in the same way that a jigsaw puzzle is fun. It certainly was not work. A second reason it took so long was that he struggled, unsuccessfully, to understand the slow shift that occurred from the simple observation of inferiority in the nineteenth century to the twentieth- and twenty-first-century effort to improve Latin Americans. What, for example, had led a 1960s assistant secretary of state (Thomas Mann) to tell Congress that Latin Americans needed Washington's help if they were going to improve their "thinking and habits and moral standards"?

That shift from passive observation to active involvement would become the focus of a quite different book. Before that, however, Schoultz told himself that he needed to stop putting off the study of something that had interested him since his days as an undergraduate, and especially since his first two trips to Cuba during the Reagan years: How had these neighbors managed to make such a mess of their relationship?

Now masquerading as something of a historian, Schoultz convinced the National Humanities Center to support him for a year so that he could begin at the beginning, in 1781, when the Continental Congress sent a consul to Havana—its first envoy to anywhere in Latin America. Seduced once again by the archives, it took Schoultz 11 years to time-travel from the eighteenth to the twenty-first century, and then to write That Infernal Little Cuban Republic: The United States and the Cuban Revolution (University of North Carolina Press, 2009). It argued that Washington rarely understood the meaning of "Patria o Muerte." It was about respect. Cuba's revolutionary generation would rather fight than allow their country to be treated as if it were beneath the United States.

With that study complete, Schoultz could turn to the question that had bedeviled him while researching Beneath the United States: Why, ever since the 1898 war with Spain, has the United States been trying to improve Latin Americans, to make them more "developed," less inferior?

Two polar theories offer two different answers.

One has long been associated with Adam Smith, who argued it is a part of human nature to assist others who are less fortunate. And so as the United States became rich and powerful, and as its citizens noticed that many others remained poor and weak, human nature nudged early twentieth-century Washington to establish Caribbean and Central American protectorates, and to send money doctors to straighten out Latin Americans' finances, and democracy doctors to improve their governance.

The other theory was captured best by Hans Morgenthau, an advocate of realism. He insisted that "foreign aid is no different from diplomatic or military policy or propaganda. They are all weapons." To realists, development assistance (today's term for foreign aid) is a mechanism of conquest, soft subjugation, an alibi for power.

Schultz concluded that both theories are needed to explain today's uplifting effort. In Their Own Best Interest: A History of the U.S. Effort to Improve Latin Americans (Harvard University Press, 2018) conceives of today's policymakers as arrayed along an altruism-to-realism continuum, the single most interesting feature of which is that everyone at every point on the continuum believes the United States should do something to improve Latin Americans. They differ only about why.

And Schultz also found that today's uplifting did not develop in a linear fashion. Rather, it is the product of two bursts engineered by two generations. The Progressive generation in the early twentieth century created today's uplifting mentality, cementing into US foreign policy a belief that the United States should improve "underdeveloped" peoples. Then after a quarter-century interlude, the Cold War generation created the institutions that compose today's uplifting industry. The Agency for International Development, the National Endowment for Democracy, and their brethren represent the transformation of uplifting from an ad hoc activity—a money doctor here, a few Marines there—into a deeply entrenched set of institutions.

Today's Washington-based uplifting industry employs tens of thousands of direct-hire individuals and private-sector contractors. Acting in concert, they have solidified the belief that development assistance is both a humane obligation and a useful tool to promote US interests. To have captured both the altruistic hearts and the realistic minds of just about everyone in Washington is an extraordinary achievement for an industry that is dismissed with contempt by many and subject to criticism by most.

If that is where we are today, where are we heading? Schultz's best guess is in the conclusion of In Their Own Best Interest. It will be the focus of his comments at LASA's Kalman Silvert panel in Boston.

LECTURESHIPS AND FELLOWSHIPS

The 2019 awardees will be presented at the LASA Welcome Ceremony on Friday, May 24, 7:30 pm, Marriott Copley Place Hotel, Main Ballroom, Salon E.

LASA/OXFAM AMERICA MARTIN DISKIN MEMORIAL LECTURESHIP

Sunday, May 26, 4:00 pm
Hotel: Marriott Copley Place
Room: Simmons

The Martin Diskin Memorial Lecture is given at LASA International Congresses by an outstanding individual who embodies Professor Martin Diskin's commitment to the combination of activism and scholarship. The 2019 lecture will be given by José Alberto Idiáquez, SJ. As a Nicaraguan Jesuit priest and rector of the Universidad Centroamericana de Nicaragua (UCA), Padre Chepe has had a long trajectory of political and academic commitments for social justice that include both direct community work, such as his commitments with Garifuna communities, and profound involvement in institutional engagement in support of student-lead initiatives and in promoting critical praxis through the university.

GUILLERMO O'DONNELL DEMOCRACY AWARD AND LECTURESHIP

Saturday, May 25, 10:45am
Hotel: Marriott Copley Place
Room: Simmons

The Guillermo O'Donnell Democracy Award and Lectureship was established in 2017 to honor the distinguished career and pioneering intellectual leadership of the late Guillermo O'Donnell. This award recognizes outstanding scholarship in democracy studies or meritorious public service promoting democracy. The 2019 lecture will be given by Dr. Evelyne S. Huber and Dr. John D. Stephens, who have investigated both the conditions that favor the installation and maintenance of democracy and the conditions under which democracy can function in an egalitarian way, with strong representation for subordinate classes and policies that reduce inequalities in life chances.

LASA/OXFAM AMERICA MARTIN DISKIN MEMORIAL DISSERTATION AWARD

Sunday, May 26, 9:00 am
Hotel: Marriott Copley Place
Room: Simmons

This award is offered at each LASA International Congress to an outstanding junior scholar who exemplifies Professor Diskin's commitment to the creative combination of activism and scholarship. This year the award will be presented to Daniel Ruiz-Serna of McGill University for his dissertation "When Forests Run Amok: War and Its Afterlives in Indigenous and Afro-Colombian Territories." Ruiz's dissertation points to territories as subjects of rights and convincingly argues that nature (including animals, such as jaguars) and humans are both actors of war and impacted by war's violent unleashings. His dissertation is both firmly grounded in current ontological debates and takes these discussions to the plane of the political, specifically to contexts of war and state-sponsored violence in ways that the committee found to not only be creative theoretically but highly relevant for expanding the limits of the political as well as pointing toward new directions for politically engaged scholarship.

HONORABLE MENTION

Laura Bernal-Bermúdez of the University of Oxford has received an honorable mention for her dissertation, "The Power of Business and the Power of People: Understanding Remedy and Business Accountability for Human Rights Violations—Colombia 1970-2014." Laura Bernal's dissertation provides a rigorous empirical study of human rights activism directed toward business companies as human rights violators.

CHARLES A. HALE FELLOWSHIP FOR MEXICAN HISTORY

Sunday, May 26, 9:00 am
Hotel: Marriott Copley Place
Room: Simmons

This award is offered at each LASA International Congress to a Mexican graduate student in the final phase of his or her doctoral research in Mexican history. The award is based on scholarly merit and on potential contribution to the advancement of humanist understanding between Mexico and its global neighbors. This year the award will be presented to Abraham Trejo Terreros of El Colegio de México, A.C, for his dissertation, “Vigilar a los Coyotes en la zona fronteriza: Ilegalidad y corrupción en los servicios de migración de México y Estados Unidos, 1900-1964” for his contribution to the current historiographical debate on the forms of resistance and organization developed by people displacing among borders.

HOWARD F. CLINE BOOK PRIZE IN MEXICAN HISTORY

Saturday, May 25, 4:00pm
Hotel: Marriott Copley Place
Room: Simmons

The Howard F. Cline Book Prize in Mexican History is presented at each LASA International Congress to the author of an outstanding book of major importance to the development of the field of Mexican history in honor of Howard F. Cline, who was a historian of Mexico and a founder of the Latin American Studies Association.

This year the award will be presented to Ben Vinson III of Case Western Reserve University, for his book Before Mestizaje: The Frontiers of Race and Caste in Colonial Mexico (Cambridge University Press, 2018). In this tantalizing and absorbing book, Vinson’s analysis is that castizaje effectively fostered hybridity, an antecedent step to modern notions of mestizaje, a cosmic race, and racial redemption. The book’s remarkable findings emphasize the importance of working across conventional periodization to understand complex social processes like race and identity.

LUCIANO TOMASSINI LATIN AMERICAN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS BOOK AWARD

Monday, May 27, 9:00am
Hotel: Marriott Copley Place
Room: Simmons

The Luciano Tomassini Latin American International Relations Book Award is presented at each LASA International Congress to an outstanding book on Latin American foreign policies and international relations in honor of Professor Luciano Tomassini, the remarkable thinker, political scientist, and analyst who devoted his talent to spread the word about the need to understand the economic and political changes coming to the world. This year the award will be presented to Tore C. Olsson for his book Agrarian Crossings: Reformers and the Remaking of the US and Mexican Countryside (Princeton University Press, 2017). Olsson exposes the highly interactive agrarian relations between Mexico and the United States in the early 20th century. The work builds on remarkable archival work cutting across Mexican states, U.S. Southern states, and New Deal decision-making. It details how Lázaro Cárdenas’s agrarian reforms shaped the only significant land reform of the twentieth century in the United States.

HONORABLE MENTION

Kathryn A. Sikkink of Harvard University has received an honorable mention for her book Evidence for Hope: Making Human Rights Work in the 21st Century (Princeton University Press, 2017). Sikkink draws on historical sources, quantitative data, and interviews with human rights advocates to compile a well-grounded defense of the effectiveness of the human rights movement. Her book rebuts numerous myths about the human rights regime, including its status as a Western imposition or creation.

BRYCE WOOD BOOK AWARD

Monday, May 27, 2:15pm
Hotel: Marriott Copley Place
Room: Simmons

The Bryce Wood Book Award is presented at each LASA International Congress to an outstanding book on Latin America in the social sciences and humanities. This year the award will be presented to Susan H. Ellison for her book Domesticating Democracy: The Politics of Conflict Resolution in Bolivia (Duke University Press, 2018). Ellison's book is a finely-grained study of alternate dispute resolution (ADR) as practiced in newly founded centers for integrated justice in El Alto, a sprawling and largely poor settlement above La Paz, Bolivia. Taking us from the most intimate level of domestic violence to World Bank workshops, Ellison reveals the ubiquity of ADR as a local solution to state-level failure, but one that ultimately serves neoliberal ends.

HONORABLE MENTION

Ana R. Minian, Undocumented Lives: The Untold Story of Mexican Migration (Harvard University Press, 2018), explores the lives of Mexicans across three generations who have made the journey across the U.S. border without papers. Using correspondence, archival records, and extensive interviews with 124 unauthorized immigrants and 180 members of their families or friends who remained in Mexico, Minian chronicles their everyday lives.

PREMIO IBEROAMERICANO BOOK AWARD

Monday, May 27pm, 12:30pm
Hotel: Marriott Copley Place
Room: Simmons

The Premio Iberoamericano is presented at each of LASA's International Congresses for the outstanding book on Latin America in the social sciences and humanities published in Spanish or Portuguese in any country.

El comité de selección del Premio Iberoamericano decidió otorgar el primer premio al libro Violencias y migraciones centroamericanas en México, de María Dolores París Pombo. El libro de París Pombo es un aporte riguroso y relevante a la comprensión de un fenómeno social, político y humano que la inmediatez de la noticia periodística y las distorsiones xenofóbicas impiden comprender en su cabal magnitud. Son de destacar en Violencias y migraciones centroamericanas en México el rigor en el acopio y análisis de datos, la pertinencia de la reflexión teórica y crítica, la claridad y riqueza de la exposición, así como la plena conciencia de que un trabajo de investigación académico de primer orden no tiene por qué estar reñido con un firme compromiso ético.

HONORABLE MENTION

Tierras en trance: Arte y naturaleza después del paisaje, de Jens E. Andermann (Chile: Metales Pesados, 2018) es un denso y provocador ensayo que recorre medios tan diversos como la literatura y la fotografía, entre otros, para discutir cómo distintos creadores latinoamericanos han producido interacciones e intervenciones en el espacio latinoamericano.

LASA MEDIA AWARD

Saturday, May 25, 9:00am
Hotel: Marriott Copley Place
Room: Simmons

The LASA Media Award is presented at each LASA International Congress to recognize long-term journalistic contributions to analysis and public debate about Latin America in the United States and in Latin America, as well as breakthrough journalism. This year the award will be presented to Patricia Nieto Nieto for her over 20 years of commitment to marginalized people while covering Colombia's internal conflict. She works with victims affected by the struggles of the conflict, giving them voice and telling their daily life stories through testimony.

HONORABLE MENTION

Nelly Luna Amancio of Ojo Público, Peru. Ojo Público is a recent not-for-profit journalism collective formed by young journalists which has garnered international attention and various awards due to the impact and scope of their work, investigative capacity, use of data, interviews in indigenous and Spanish languages, strong visual story-telling techniques, international and transnational collaborations, and their training of colleagues to improve journalism quality widely.

LASA-PITT AWARD FOR BEST ARTICLE

The LARR-Pitt Award is presented at each LASA International Congress to the best research article published by the Latin American Research Review (LARR) during the past calendar year (i.e., in the volume of the journal preceding the year of the congress). The winner is Eli Carter for his article "Representing Blackness in Brazil's Changing Television Landscape: The Cases of Mister Brau and O Grande Gonzalez," published in LARR Volume 53 (2).

Pre-Conferences, Workshops and Activities

The Black Image in 19th Century Latin America

Thursday, May 23,
9:30 am to 8:30 pm

Hotel: Sheraton Boston

Room: Jamaica Pond

This workshop will convene an interdisciplinary group of scholars working on the nineteenth century, a defining period in the construction and circulation of the Black image in Latin America. It witnessed the emergence of recalibrated social hierarchies thanks largely to the official rejection of colonial caste terminology and the frequently drawn-out process towards the abolition of slavery. This period also produced paradigmatic visual representations rooted in a typology of Black subjects as subservient, immoral, exotic, and picturesque. These stereotypes, as seen through the romantic and ethnographic gaze of both foreign and local artists, would go on to have a lasting currency through their widespread repetition and circulation via popular media. At the same time, Afro-Latin Americans contested these images with the aid of new visual technologies such as photography, which opened up the portraiture genre to the masses and were collectively bolstered by the rise of the Black press.

Including New Agendas in Latin American Studies: The Role of Editors

Thursday, May 23,
1:00 pm to 3:00 pm

Hotel: Marriott Copley Place

Room: Boston University

This workshop will discuss how new agendas enter the field of Latin American Studies. Seasoned editors from major interdisciplinary journals and academic publishers will discuss the issue and provide orientation on good practices and common mistakes found in manuscripts, emphasizing practical advice on how to present research, where to submit papers and book manuscripts, and how to navigate the peer-review process.

Organized by Aníbal Pérez-Liñán, University of Notre Dame

Sponsored by: Latin American Research Review

Access Scenarios: Latin American Film in Festivals, Communities and Archives

Thursday, May 23,
1:00 pm to 5:00 pm

Hotel: Marriott Copley Place

Room: Brandeis

This mini-conference will include two panels, implemented as one roundtable and one workshop. The purpose of the roundtable, entitled "Festivales, ciclos, encuentros... Cómo visibilizar el cine y crear públicos con la comunidad," is to share and discuss different instances promoting Latin American cinema in the community, beyond the academic environment. The discussion will contemplate the promotion of visual and film literacy, the organization of film clubs, filmmakers' participation in screenings, etc., as means to generate interdisciplinary, cross-institutional, and community connections. This roundtable will be held from 1 to 3 pm.

The workshop, "Towards a Latin American Documentary Film Archive and Interactive Database (LA-RED)," will bring film studies scholars, a teaching technology specialist, specialized librarians, and an economist to discuss the groundwork completed for the project LA-RED. Currently, there is no consolidated bibliographic repository of Latin American documentary films. LA-RED will present (identify, catalogue, showcase, and deliver when possible) important and meaningful documentaries. This workshop will begin at 3 pm and end at 5 pm..

Organized by: Claudia Ferman, University of Richmond; Anibal Pérez-Liñán, University of Notre Dame; Michael A. Marsh-Soloway, University of Richmond

Fulbright U.S. Scholar
Opportunities in Latin America

Presidential Sessions

Vozes/Voces: Black Women's Poetry, Performance, and Politics

Friday, May 24
4:00 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Location:
Boston Marriott
Copley Place Hotel,
Salon E

Organizers: Lorraine Leu (University of Texas at Austin)
Alaí Reyes-Santos (University of Oregon)
Chair: Jossianna Arroyo-Martínez (University of Texas at Austin)
Presenters: Elizandra Souza (Independent Writer/Activist)
Ana-Maurine Lara (University of Oregon)

ABSTRACT

This presidential session opens a space for two women of color whose powerful voices ring out over the continents and the islands of our America. Elizandra Souza has been an irrepressible force on São Paulo's cultural scene for two decades. A member of the city's hip-hop movement in the late 1990s, she has been a leading participant in the Cooperifa poetry slams that take place in São Paulo's periphery. A journalist by training, Souza is also an activist blogger and an editor and publisher of black women's literature. Souza's poetry directly confronts violence against women and the ongoing dehumanization of black lives in Brazil. Ana-Maurine Lara is a Dominican-born, U.S.-based national-award-winning poet, fiction writer, and playwright. Lara's creative, political, and scholarly work engages with questions of black-indigenous freedom, imagining black/indigenous queer futures, and the material and imaginative implications of decolonization. She is currently working on the second decade-long project, "PL"—a series of workshops centering the stories of migrants and queers of color throughout the continent. The performances and conversation between Souza and Lara will explore their shared interest in cultural activism; black aesthetics, identities, and experiences; and Afro-descendant spiritual practices, liberation, and social justice.

From Populism to Fascism? The Americas in the Era of Trump

Friday, May 24
5:45 p.m. to 7:15 p.m.

Location:
Boston Marriott
Copley Place Hotel,
Provincetown

Organizers: Carlos A. Aguirre (University of Oregon)
Lynn M Stephen (University of Oregon)
Chair: Margaret M. Power (Illinois Institute of Technology)
Presenters: Jeffrey W. Rubin (Boston University)
Keisha-Khan Y. Perry (Brown University)
Margaret M. Power (Illinois Institute of Technology)
Greg J. Grandin (New York University)

ABSTRACT

When Donald Trump was elected president of the United States, some commentators were prompt to suggest that he could be considered the first "Latin American" president elected in the United States: for them, Trump closely resembled populist, demagogic, and authoritarian Latin American caudillos. Since coming to power, his policies and rhetoric related to issues such as immigration, civil liberties, diversity, and transparency have prompted many analysts to call him a fascist or proto-fascist leader. The recent election of two Latin American presidents that are usually considered "populist"—the right-wing Bolsonaro in Brazil and the left-leaning López Obrador in Mexico—and the presence of several other populist leaders such as Maduro, Morales, or Ortega, are taken as evidence of a larger trend towards authoritarianism in the region. This session will assess the degree to which this could be the case, discuss the historical and contemporary factors that help understand this trend, and address the actual or potential threats that it poses to democracy, human rights, and social justice efforts in the region.

Media, News, and Democracy.
A Conversation with Carmen
Aristegui and Julia Preston

Saturday, May 25
12:30 p.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Location:
Boston Marriott
Copley Place Hotel,
Salon E

Organizers: Juan Carlos Moreno Brid (Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México)
Lynn M. Stephen (University of Oregon)

Presenters: Julia Preston (The Marshall Project)
Carmen Aristegui Flores (CNN en Español)

ABSTRACT

This presidential session explores the relationship between freedom of the press, different forms of media, and democracy. Former New York Times reporter Julia Preston, who now is a contributing writer at the Marshall Project, will interview Carmen Aristegui, an award-winning Mexican journalist and anchor. Julia Preston covered immigration for the New York Times for ten years, until December 2016. She has worked as an editor and foreign correspondent for the Times and, before that, the Washington Post. Preston was a member of the New York Times staff who won the 1998 Pulitzer Prize for reporting on international affairs for a series that profiled the corrosive effects of drug corruption in Mexico. Carmen Aristegui is recognized as an expert on Mexican national politics. She has held a wide range of positions in radio and television and won multiple honors throughout her professional career, and is known for her critical investigations into the Mexican government. She is currently the anchor for Aristegui, CNN en Español. The conversation with Aristegui and Preston will explore the role of freedom of the press in sustaining a democratic environment and how self-censorship practiced in countries such as Mexico affects perceptions of the media, compare the pros and cons of mainstream versus alternative media outlets in educating citizens who can defend democracy, and discuss what new possibilities are on the horizon for news coverage in Mexico with the López Obrador presidency and how those may resonate elsewhere in the Americas.

ABSTRACT

Labour markets are economic and social spaces that mark, in a fundamental way, whether a nation is advancing in its quest for equality, justice, and social inclusion. Wages, employment conditions, and the ways in which workers are organized and represented help to either reproduce vicious circles of inequality and exploitation or—on the contrary—to serve as dynamic vehicles for social mobility, inclusion, and equality. Today, ten years after the financial crisis of 2009, it is evident that labor markets in Latin America are not working well to improve the lives and hopes of our peoples. Unemployment, informal markets, poor wages, lack of social mobility and of decent work opportunities painfully reveal that too many of our brothers and sisters are being left behind. It is urgent for all of us—employers, workers, civil servants, men and women—to have a better understanding of our labor markets and what can we do to improve them so that they help to strengthen equality, inclusion, and social justice. This session will explore such topics and possible solutions so that nobody is left behind!

The Cuban Revolution
60 Years Later

Saturday, May 25
4:00 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Location:
Boston Marriott
Copley Place Hotel,
Salon E

Organizers: Carlos A. Aguirre (University of Oregon)
Lynn M. Stephen (University of Oregon)

Chair: Alejandro De La Fuente (Harvard University)

Presenters: Zuleica Romay (Casa de las Américas)
Carlos Alzugaray Treto (Revista Temas)
Carmelo Mesa-Lago (University of Pittsburgh)
Lillian Guerra (University of Florida)

ABSTRACT

On January 1, 1959, Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista fled the country; a week later, revolutionary troops led by Fidel Castro entered Havana to the jubilation of most Cubans, who saw in them the promise of a democratic, egalitarian, and sovereign society. The revolutionary victory changed the course of history for Cuba and the entire Western Hemisphere and effectively improved the lives of most Cubans through radical social reforms. Over the next few years the United States punished Cuba with an economic embargo and other measures, Fidel declared the socialist nature of the revolution, a single-party system was imposed, and political opposition was banned. Today, 60 years later, many things have changed, but many others remain in place. The revolution's goals and promises continue to inspire and mobilize people in Cuba and beyond, but the challenges and setbacks it has faced are also part of its legacy. This session will address the various dimensions of the past, present, and future of the revolution.

Taking Action Against Harassment

Saturday, May 25
5:45 p.m. to 7:15 p.m.

Location:
Boston Marriott
Copley Place Hotel,
Salon E

Organizer: Lynn M. Stephen (University of Oregon)

Chair: Vivian A. Martínez Díaz (Universidad de los Andes)

Presenters: Vivian A. Martínez Díaz (Universidad de los Andes)
Mercedes Prieto (Facultad Latinoamericana de Ciencias Sociales/FLACSO Ecuador)
Sales A. dos Santos (Departamento de Ciências Sociais (DCS) /
Universidade Federal de Viçosa (UFV))

Discussant: Carmen Diana Deere (University of Florida and FLACSO Ecuador)

ABSTRACT

En el 2018 se generó un intenso debate sobre el acoso dentro de LASA. El propósito de este simposio es, por un lado, presentar perspectivas sobre la violencia y el acoso en entornos educativos y profesionales de América Latina. Las ponencias presentadas por los profesores Mercedes Prieto y Sales Augusto dos Santos cumplen ese objetivo. Por otro lado, se buscan exponer las iniciativas desarrolladas por la Comisión Anti-acoso de LASA y analizarlas a la luz de políticas para erradicar el acoso que hayan sido implementadas en asociaciones similares a LASA.

Thinking Territory in Latin America

Sunday, May 26
12:30 p.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Location:
Boston Marriott
Copley Place Hotel,
Salon E

Organizers: Lorraine Leu (University of Texas at Austin)
Fernando L. Lara (University of Texas at Austin)
Chair: Fernando L. Lara (University of Texas at Austin)
Presenters: Raquel Rolnik (Universidade de São Paulo)
Arturo Escobar (University of North Carolina)

ABSTRACT

This session highlights the importance of territory to discussions of justice and inclusion in our America. Colonialism and its violence against both first peoples and enslaved Africans produced contemporary spaces where the racialized and the poor are excluded from security, representation, and meaningful citizenship. Arturo Escobar, Kenan Distinguished Professor of Anthropology at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and Raquel Rolnik, Professor of Architecture at the Universidade de São Paulo and UN Special Rapporteur on adequate housing (2008–2014) have consistently explored the correlation between territorial and social exclusion in their work.

In this presidential session Escobar and Rolnik will discuss the pervasive effects of development and urbanism as prescribed by hegemonic institutions for territories across the Americas that include the peripheries of São Paulo, Buenos Aires, Lima, Bogotá, Caracas, Ciudad de México, Los Angeles, Chicago, New York, or Montreal. Their dialogue will explore how the question of territory, whether rural or urban, is crucial to understanding today's social, political, and even ontological dynamics.

Immigrant Families and Youth: Justice and Democracy

Sunday, May 26
2:15 p.m. to 3:45 p.m.

Location:
Boston Marriott
Copley Place Hotel,
Salon E

Sponsored by: Society for Latin American and Caribbean Anthropology (SLACA)
Organizer: Lynn M. Stephen (University of Oregon)
Chair: Lynn M. Stephen (University of Oregon)
Presenters: Roberto G. Gonzales (Harvard University)
Patricia J. Zavella (University of California, Santa Cruz)

ABSTRACT

In this facilitated conversation, noted scholars Patricia Zavella (Professor Emerita, Latin American and Latina/o Studies Department, University of California, Santa Cruz) and Roberto Gonzalez (Professor, Graduate School of Education, Harvard University) explore the contributions of immigrant families and youth to processes of justice and democracy in the U.S. They will also highlight how those contributions help broaden the politics of belonging across the country. Finally, the discussion will also address the ways in which current and past legal contexts, racism, and inequality have shaped the lives of immigrant youth and families.

Indigenous Matters:
A Critical Hemispheric
Dialogue by Native Women

Sunday, May 26
5:45 p.m. to 7:15 p.m.

Location:
Boston Marriott
Copley Place Hotel,
Salon E

Organizer/s: Shannon Speed (University of California, Los Angeles/UCLA) and Lynn M. Stephen (University of Oregon)
Chair/s: Shannon Speed (University of California, Los Angeles/UCLA) and Luis E. Cárcamo-Huechante (University of Texas at Austin)
Presenters: Lisa Brooks (Abenaki Nation of Missisquoi; Amherst College)
Angela Mooney D'Arcy (Juaneno Band of Mission Indians and Acjachemen; Founder and Director of Sacred Places Institute)
Lorena Cañuqueo (Mapuche-Puelche, Lof Mariano Epulef and Equipo de Enseñantes de Mapuzungun; Universidad Nacional de Río Negro, Argentina)

ABSTRACT

This presidential session brings together indigenous scholars from South, Central, and North America to discuss matters of pressing common concern across the hemisphere, including issues of dispossession, extractivism, cultural heritage, the environment, indigenous women's agency, and colonialism(s) in the current era of global neoliberal capitalism. The panel will bring to the fore alternative knowledges and decolonizing practices, and will highlight uniquely indigenous perspectives and positions on resistance, indigenous politics, and Native futurities. The panel is conceived as a conversation and will be in roundtable format to allow back-and-forth between the participants and engagement with the audience.

Puerto Rico's Challenges and Solidarity: Before and After Hurricane Maria

Monday, May 27
12:30 p.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Location:
Boston Marriott
Copley Place Hotel,
Salon E

Organizer/s: Lynn M. Stephen (University of Oregon)
Chair: Edwin J. Meléndez (Hunter College of the City University of New York)
Presenters: Marie T. Mora (University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley)
Charles R. Venator Santiago (University of Connecticut)
Hector R. Cordero-Guzmán (Baruch College of the City University of New York)

ABSTRACT

Hurricane Maria, a devastating Category 4 hurricane, caused billions of dollars in damage to Puerto Rico and left 3.4 million island residents without electric power, potable water, and telecommunications. Recovery is estimated to take years. This panel will address topics related to the economic, fiscal, and unfolding humanitarian crisis in Puerto Rico following the catastrophic impact of Hurricanes Irma and Maria, and the impact of the crisis on stateside Puerto Ricans. Panelists will present multidisciplinary perspectives on interrelated aspects of the crisis and prospects for the future.

Leadership Circle

The purpose of the LASA Leadership Circle is to strengthen the relationship between LASA and its donors, reaffirming the value of annual support at the leadership level. The LASA Leadership Circle fosters members who provide support to LASA, its Endowment fund, and other initiatives. Donors who contribute $50 or more annually become members of the Leadership Circle. Matching gifts from companies and firms count toward membership.

CONGRESS VENUES

LASA2019 takes place in the city of Boston, Massachusetts, in two venues:

Marriott Copley Place Hotel

110 Huntington Avenue
Boston, MA 02116

Sheraton Boston Hotel

39 Dalton St.
Boston, MA 02199

PREREGISTRATION AND REGISTRATION

As in the past, all LASA Congress participants and attendees must be registered. No exceptions can be made. The deadline for Congress participants to preregister was March 14, 2019.

From March 15 to May 22, 2019, regular registration is available to participants without an active role in the Congress.

Registration and check-in areas during the Congress will be located in the Marriott Copley Place Hotel, 4th floor. Participants are encouraged to check in for the Congress starting on Thursday, May 23, from 3:30 pm until 7:30 pm.

For LASA2019, preregistered participants have received their name badge and constancias via e-mail. With your printed name badge, go to the badge-holder area to pick up a badge holder and to the program book area to pick up a program book if it was purchased. You must wear your name badge at all times to access all Congress activities.

Registration and check-in hours:

Thursday, May 23	3:30 pm – 7:30 pm
Friday, May 24	8:30 am – 7:30 pm
Saturday, May 25	8:30 am – 7:30 pm
Sunday, May 26	8:30 am – 7:30 pm
Monday, May 27	8:30 am – 3:00 pm

REGISTRATION AREAS:

Badge-Holder Area

Badge holders will be available for self-pickup at several stations.

Check-in Kiosks Area

This area is for preregistered participants who need to reprint name badges. Remember to bring your ID and password with you.

Program Book Pickup Area

If you purchased a printed copy of the program book online, use this area to pick up your book. Make sure you bring your name badge and program book ticket (PB).

Preregistration Area

This area provides general support to all preregistered participants.

On-Site Registration Area

This area is for participants who need to register on-site and are not local students or scholars. Make sure to complete an on-site registration form (F1) before approaching this area.

Local Attendees Area

Local students or scholars from the United States or Canada with no prior affiliation to LASA and without any role during the Congress may register in this area. Make sure to complete an on-site registration form (F2) before approaching this area. Neither badges nor constancias will be provided.

Exhibitors Registration Area

This area is dedicated to exhibitors who are participating in the LASA2019 Book Exhibit.

Travel Grantees Office

All LASA and Section travel grantees must approach this office to receive their grants.

LASA Priority Office

This area is dedicated to Life Members, press, and members who have provided service to LASA during the year.

AUDIO VISUAL EQUIPMENT

LASA will provide an LCD projector, a screen, and the proper connections for a laptop in each meeting room. Each panel is responsible for bringing a laptop for their presentation. Separate audio and video equipment and internet connection are not provided. Any video presentations should be recorded on DVD or any other media so they may be viewed via the laptop. Presenters are required to provide their own speakers if needed. AV staff is available if participants experience any problem with the equipment provided by LASA.

MEDICAL EMERGENCIES

All hotel security officers at the Marriott Copley Place and Sheraton Boston Hotels are trained and certified to respond to most medical emergencies that may arise at the hotel. AED devices are located in the fitness center, at the reception desk and at the Hotel Security Operations Center. For your safety and protection 911 can be dialed directly from all guest phones. However, in the event of any emergency we encourage you to call Hotel Security (ext. 1000) to facilitate any needed emergency services. Additional information on other type of emergencies may be found on LASA's webpage.

CYBER CAFÉ

The cyber café will be provided at the Book Exhibit, Marriott Copley Place, Gloucester Hall.

CHILDCARE

LASA has contracted the services of ACCENT, a childcare company, to provide childcare support to all participants with an active role in the Congress and that are traveling with their kids to Boston. LASA is partially subsidizing the cost of childcare to support its Congress participants.

Childcare services will be provided at the Marriott Copley Place Hotel (Regis Room, 3rd floor) during the days of the Congress (May 24 to 27, 2019) from 8:45 am to 7:30 pm. You must have preregistered online with ACCENT prior to the Congress to use this service. Additional details are posted on LASA's webpage.

LOST AND FOUND

If a lost object is found or if you lose an object, please go to the Registration Area (Marriott Copley Place, 4th floor) where we will receive and keep all lost items.

CONSTANCIAS

Constancias for LASA2019 are provided via email along with the name badge.

Acknowledgments

LASA would not be able to accomplish its mission and would not be what it is today without the support of hundreds of people who work tirelessly to help the organization.

Special thanks to the members of the LASA Executive Board, led by Professor Lynn Stephen, LASA President, for their time, guidance, and leadership during the year.

We are very grateful to our donors, sponsors, and institutional partners. Travel grants provided by the Tinker and Ford Foundations help students and scholars in Latin America attend LASA congresses, while institutional partners support the development of new programs for members.

We can't thank enough all of our member-volunteers who spend hundreds of hours reviewing congress proposal submissions, preparing the congress program, and assembling special panels, among many other activities.

Finally, thanks to the LASA Secretariat staff for their ideas, dedication, hard work, and enthusiasm.

Service to LASA and the Profession, LASA Officers, Committees, and Task Forces

LASA is extremely grateful to the members who provided volunteer service during 2018-2019.

Using this Program Book

Beginning on page 1, sessions are listed by day and time and alphabetized by Track codes (see below) and by session name. Note that each session is assigned a sequence number. Using the section of the book “Sessions by Program Track” and the sequence number, you can determine the days and times of topic areas of your interest. The Name Index is organized by participant’s last name and provides a sequence number.

The meeting day is divided into six blocks of 1 hour and 30 minutes. The sessions begin at 9:00 am, 10:45 am, 12:30 pm, 2:15 pm, 4:00 pm, and 5:45 pm, with 15-minute intervals between sessions. Chairs need to make sure their sessions end precisely on time. Other meetings, special events, and receptions beginning at 7:30 or 8:00 pm also are listed.

Los cubanos de Harvard

USA-Cuba | 2017 | 72 min | Spoken Languages: Spanish | Subtitles: English

> Danny González Lucena

In the year 1900, more than half of all Cuban public school teachers from across the island boarded five American military ships to travel to Cambridge to participate in a Summer School organized by Harvard, the largest such endeavor ever undertaken by the University. The journey was orchestrated by Alexis Frye, Superintendent of Schools in Cuba during the U.S. occupation. The purpose of the trip was to expose the teachers to modern methods in pedagogy and to the great advances of American society. The people of Cambridge –convinced that this Expedition would aid in the reconstruction of Cuba after the ravishing wars for independence in Cuba– contributed over $70,000 to finance the visit. In turn, Harvard offered Summer School courses free of charge to the nearly 1,300 teachers. Following six weeks at the Harvard Summer School, the teachers traveled to New York, Pennsylvania, and Washington DC before returning to Cuba. The educational project was not only a resounding success, but it also became the largest cultural exchange that has ever existed between the two countries, and was widely covered in the press at the time.

Singing our way to freedom

United States | 2018 | 88 min | Spoken Languages: English

> Paul Espinosa

A multilayered look at the life of Chicano musician, composer and community activist, Ramon "Chunky" Sanchez. The film chronicles Chunky's life from his humble beginnings as a farmworker in Blythe, California just north of the U.S.-Mexico border to the dramatic moment when he received one of his nation's highest musical honors at the Library of Congress in Washington DC. Chunky joined the picket lines in the California fields with Cesar Chavez, demanding justice and better wages for Mexican American farmworkers. He discovered that music could be a powerful weapon in creating social change and became Chavez's favorite musician. His journey is a remarkable lens on a time when young Mexican Americans became Chicanos. His student activism began in San Diego with the community takeover of public land that became Chicano Park. Later he performed on Joan Baez's first Spanish language record and eventually formed a band, Los Alacranes Mojados (The "Wetback" Scorpions). Their first album included an iconic photo of the band crossing the barbed wire fence at the U.S.-Mexico border in Tijuana. Today that fence is a militarized zone. Later Chunky traveled to Mexico City and was inspired by the Latin American protest music of Mercedes Sosa and Gabino Palomares, seeing firsthand the critical role that music could play in the fight for social justice. Over the course of many decades, Chunky used art to build community, learning how to employ honesty, humor and music to inspire folks to stand up and speak truth to power.

El Camino de Santiago. Desaparición y muerte de Santiago Maldonado

United States | 2018 | 83 min | Spoken Languages: Spanish | Subtitles: English

> Tristán Bauer

August 2017, Argentine Patagonia. In the midst of the repression of the National Gendarmerie to the protest of the Mapuche people, who claim for their lands the tycoon Luciano Benetton, a young man of 28 years, Santiago Maldonado, disappears. In the country of 30,000 disappeared, his family begins a search that soon mobilizes the whole of society in a common claim: Where is it? Who took it? While the authorities refuse to investigate, and the media blames the victim, the claim reaches international resonance. 78 days later, the body of Santiago appears on the banks of the Chubut River, very close to where it was last seen. What happened to Santiago on August 1? Who are responsible for his disappearance? Where were you for almost three months? These questions remain unanswered, in a case that still claims Truth and Justice.

Nos están matando

Colombia | 2018 | 21 min | Spoken Languages: Spanish | Subtitles: English

> Tom Laffay, Emily Wright

As the world focuses on the demobilization of the FARC rebel group, another war is being waged on Colombia's social leaders and human rights defenders – the very people key to building peace and shaping the new Colombia. "Nos están matando" – "They're killing us" – has become the cry of social movements across the country. The former head of Colombia's victims' unit, Alan Jara, described it as a 'massacre in slow motion' - referring to the 200 plus community leaders murdered since peace was signed in 2016. Activists are being targeted with impunity in the interests of territorial control, illegal mining and illicit crop cultivation. Our film takes us to the department of Cauca, which bears a disproportionate share of that violence. For a year we followed two threatened human right defenders: Feliciano Valencia, an Indigenous Nasa community leader fighting for land rights and Héctor Marino, an Afro Descendent community leader trying to set up a community self-protection group – the Cimarron Guard. In intimate, poignant scenes we demonstrate the stress and sacrifices these two men make on a daily basis to work for their community's rights. By focusing on their personal lives we get behind the headlines and statistics (on average, one leader killed every four days) to see what is really at stake when peace is promised, but not delivered. From inside bulletproof SUVs, on territory raids and marches with indigenous groups and joining funeral processions high in the mountains of Cauca, our film takes viewers into the real and deadly side of Colombia's peace process.

Chocolate of peace

Colombia, United Kingdom | 2016 | 55 min | Spoken Languages: Spanish, English | Subtitles: English | > Gwen Burnyeat, Pablo Mejía Trujillo

Chocolate of Peace depicts the Peace Community of San José de Apartadó's experiences of resistance, via a journey through their processes of organic chocolate production. From the seed to the product, the cacao is the narrative thread that takes us through the Community's stories of violence and resilience, and their fight to remain neutral in the face of the Colombian armed conflict. This film offers a panorama of hope, proof that despite great difficulties it is possible to sow peace through human and economic relationships. It invites us to rethink our relationship with food, to value the efforts of those who produce it, and to build bridges between the victims of the armed conflict and other sectors of global civil society.

In a forgotten massacre during Guatemala's decades-long civil war, a young boy was spared, only to be raised by one of the very soldiers who killed his family. Nearly 30 years after the tragedy, it will take a dedicated team – from a forensic scientist to a young Guatemalan prosecutor – to uncover the truth and bring justice to those responsible...by finding the missing boy named Oscar. FINDING OSCAR is a feature length documentary about the search for justice in the devastating case of the Dos Erres massacre in Guatemala. That search leads to the trail of two little boys who were plucked from a nightmare and offer the only living evidence that ties the Guatemalan government to the massacre.

"Yuyos are all spontaneous plants that can be medicinal or simple herbs. There are yuyos that can be toxic and other that are beneficial for health." In Colonia Luz Bella, Paraguay, two researchers live with the peasant family Franco Gauto to document their ethnobotanical knowledge in relation to their daily life. Born to recover the natural medicine's heritage of one family involved with agroecology, the ethnographic film speaks for a whole community in cohabitation with deforestation. In a context of familiar sharing, eased by the social beverage of tereré, yuyos become narrative agents of stories of commitment and eco-resistance. An audio-visual ethnographic story from Paraguay.

Pasajuego: etnografía, migración e identidad de los pueblos Oaxaqueños a través de la Pelota Mixteca.

México | 2019 | 75 min | Spoken Languages: Spanish, English, Zapotec. | Subtitles: English, Spanish.
 > Daniel Oliveras de Ita

In the southern state of Oaxaca, México, Pasajuego is the name of the court where the ancient indigenous game of Pelota Mixteca is played. Pasajuego is a visual ethnography about the migration of Oaxacan workers to urban centers of Mexico and the U.S. In this story the game of Pelota Mixteca, acts as a window to look through the lives of the Oaxacan people at their migration destinations. The practice of Pelota Mixteca in different contexts reflects the lives of those who play the game, and shows how culture travels with them when they migrate. It tells the story of the players, shows the solidarity among different regions of Oaxaca, Mexico and the U.S., and takes the audience through the diaspora of these migrants. This documentary film aims to capture the community contexts in which the game is carried out, and the ability of Oaxacan people to recreate their communities of origin on the other side of the border. In this journey the locations are condensed into one to describe Pasajuego as an embassy with diverse cultural expressions, geographically dispersed but unified by practice, cooperation and exchange between Oaxacan communities. Today at least two million Oaxacans live in the United States. This is the story of their ballgame, now taking root throughout the U.S.

The Tarahumara—one of the largest indigenous cultures in North America—live in the rugged canyons of northwestern Mexico. For them, running is not only the best way to get from one place to another, it is an important cultural tradition. They regularly compete in races that can last days and stretch well beyond a hundred miles. During the 1990s, Tarahumara runners Victoriano Churo and Cirildo Chacarito received international attention for their running abilities after they competed in several ultramarathons in the United States. Running in long, colorful shirts and sandals made out of rubber tires, they captivated the world with their strength and endurance. Today, these two great runners no longer race but they are passing on the richness of their traditions and culture to their children and community.

> Rodrigo Otero Heraud

The Eyes of the Journey is a poetic film that expresses the feelings of Andean culture toward Mother Earth, and the search for a deeper understanding of nature as a living being, as an eternal companion for humankind. The main character is an Andean shaman, who appears, walks and disappears in diverse geographies and Andean communities, as a wandering spirit who wants to take a last look at the sacred mountains, and converse with the spirits of water, rock and men, to get a better idea of what is the main disease our world suffers from in the present. In the climax of the film, the shaman climbs to a powerful mountain, and listens to the message of its spirit: the disease is not physical or mental, it is a new disease, consisting of people's hearts becoming like stone. And then he reflects: "even stones have a heart, so humans must find their way into their hearts again, leading to the heart of nature, this should be the only way out of this situation that drags us to our doom". The film flows sometimes as a prayer, and sometimes as a meditation through native communities and landscapes, from the highest mountains in Peru, down to the vast ocean, where rain and water start its never-ending cycles of regeneration of life. Humans who live in the highlands are portrayed from childhood to the old age, dealing with all kinds of emotions and histories.

Vanessa, es una niña de la comunidad de Upis, que asiste a una escuela intercultural bilingüe, ella aprende mejor en su idioma materno, el quechua; pero, sus padres se oponen a este tipo de educación, porque temen que sufra de discriminación al migrar a la ciudad. María, es una niña quechua hablante, de 11 años de edad, que vive en la comunidad de Upis, a 4830 m.s.n.m, en el distrito de Ocongate. Estudia en una escuela de Educación Intercultural Bilingüe, pero sus padres se oponen a que ella estudie en el idioma quechua. Mientras María va a la escuela, recuerda las palabras de su padre, cuando él fue víctima de discriminación en la ciudad. Al llegar a la escuela, el profesor de María inicia las clases, exponiendo y explicando a los niños en quechua. Ella se siente muy feliz aprendiendo en quechua, porque le es más fácil. Así, las clases parecían ir de maravilla, todos muy dinámicos y participativos, hasta que, el profesor hace algunas preguntas en castellano, lo que ocasiona una incertidumbre, cuando de pronto suena el timbre de recreo. En el recreo ella y sus amigos juegan e interactúan. En este acto suceden dos entrevistas, la primera de un padre de familia y la segunda del profesor. A la salida, todos los niños salen corriendo de la escuela. Vanessa se enrumba camino a casa muy contenta, jugando junto a dos de sus compañeras.

United States, Mexico | 2018 | 45 min | Spoken Languages: Valley Zapotec, Spanish, English. | Subtitles: Spanish, English

> Edward Ogborn, Kathryn Goldberg, Sabea K. Evans, Marcelo, Jauregui-Volpe, Catherine Rodgers

Dizhsa Nabani is a web based docu-series that explores the relationship between Zapotec identity, language and daily life. Zapotec languages are considered threatened as they are being acquired as native languages by fewer and fewer people. Community and individual identity are entwined with language, especially in Mexico, where criteria for self-identifying as belonging to an indigenous community usually includes speaking the corresponding language. Most Zapotec people today are bilingual, and under pressure from anti-indigenous discrimination, many choose to use Spanish in contexts that were previously reserved as Zapotec-language domains, including the home, the market, and town meetings. Given this sociolinguistic context, speaking Zapotec can be seen as an act of resistance. The goal of the series is to explore how language is interwoven with identity and with the vitality of the Zapotec community in San Jerónimo Tlacoahuaya, including the relationship between language and traditional farming, cooking techniques, and artistic performance and creation.

Located on the coast of the state of Michoacán, Santa Maria Ostula, like many other indigenous communities in Mexico, suffered great violence from organized crime. The citizens lost their land to cartels and businesses wanting to exploit their natural resources. They suffered greatly from intimidation and violence. Some were killed. Many leaders of the community decided to move away. In 2009, a group of Ostula's citizens decided to reclaim some of the land that organized crime and local leaders with the help of the government had taken. They founded the town of Xayakalan. However, by 2011, the community experienced a steep increase in violence. Over the next 3 years, most of the citizens were forced to leave Xayakalan because of the violence, disappearances and murders that ensued. This all changed in 2014, when a large group of citizens returned to Xayakalan with armed self-defense groups from Michoacán. Mexican citizens are forbidden from carry firearms, yet the Mexican Constitution grants self-defense rights to indigenous communities. The citizens were ready to fight to guarantee their security. Now able to defend themselves, the community reclaimed their land and began reconstruction of their village. RECUPERANDO EL PARAÍSO documents the armed resistance of the indigenous Santa Maria Ostula community and their struggle to reestablish law and order in their homeland.

En Argentina un total de 295 mujeres perdieron la vida durante el año 2013, lo que arroja un promedio de una muerte cada 30 horas. No murieron naturalmente, sino que fueron víctimas de "femicidio", en su mayoría a manos de sus parejas o ex parejas. "Cada 30 Horas" acompaña a tres madres que transformaron su dolor en lucha, describiendo las violencias que vivieron sus hijas; completan el relato dos sobrevivientes y denunciantes, que piden justicia. Las historias son las protagonistas, y ponen en evidencia los métodos que los agresores y la cultura patriarcal utilizan para ejercer violencia contra las mujeres. El documental recorre diversas ciudades del país; va desde Buenos Aires hasta las zonas más vulnerables de la Patagonia, dado que la problemática atraviesa todos los sectores sociales. El film destaca la labor de profesionales y militantes contra la violencia de género, que brindan su tiempo trabajando para concientizar y generar un gran cambio social y cultural; el que exigimos al tomar las calles y alzar la voz para pedir "Ni Una Menos".

A morir a los desiertos

Mexico | 2017 | 91 min | Spoken Languages: Spanish | Subtitles: English

> Marta Ferrer

The Lagoon District in Northern Mexico is home to the last singers of the Cardenche Song, a wistful/nostalgic melody of love and disdain, of wailing and tragedy. This is a journey in search of the last vestiges of this tradition. The canto Cardenche may be best described as agony made song. Sung acapella in groups of three this traditional Mexican music is the kind that's been shared from generation to generation. When hearing it, it can still conjure the pain of its singers, as well as the pain of the fore-bearers that first shared it with them. It takes the name of a cactus whose thorn — like love, the Cardenche singers note — goes in too easily but hurts like hell to take out. Long a regional staple, A morir a los desiertos is a dazzling new documentary that features heartbreaking musical performances that capture why this howl of a singing technique is so unique.

Guatemala | 2018 | 80 min | Spoken Languages: Spanish | Subtitles: English

> Ana Isabel Bustamante

Ana sometimes is short of breath, her mother thinks it's because during her pregnancy, for a moment she stopped breathing. It was the afternoon of February 13 1982, the day her father, Emil, just like another 45,000 civilians was detained and disappeared by the Guatemalan army during armed conflict. Now, amidst the silence and fear that reign in a post war society, Ana submerges herself in the memory of those who knew her father, in the memories that have not been spoken or have been hidden. She will enter the bureaucratic labyrinth that contains the only remote possibility of finding his remains and attaining some sort of justice. Asphyxia is a journey into the uncharted waters of memory, in which Ana sails, conscience of how memories can reinvent themselves and forget details. What she searches in this sea is to create images of a father she never knew.

PRIMAS is an evocative and poetic portrait of two Argentine teenage cousins who come of age together as they overcome the heinous acts of violence that interrupted their childhoods. When Rocío was 10 years old, she was dragged from her bike by a stranger, raped, set on fire and left for dead. Now a teenager, she still grapples with memories of the nightmarish assault that left her body scarred. Together with her cousin Aldana, who was sexually abused for years by her own father, she lives, laughs and shares her story. Traveling through Argentina and Montreal, the two cousins embark upon a program of theater, dance, and circus that helps them process complex emotions. Little by little, they manage to rebuild the lives that were so brutally stolen from them and free themselves from the shadows of their past. A humanistic exploration of familial love, creativity, and courage in the wake of sexual violence, PRIMAS is a moving tribute to the deep strength of resilient women.

La situación del clítoris en Cochabamba

Bolivia | 2017 | 12 min | Spoken Languages: Spanish
 > Paola Terán Valdez

Muchas mujeres viven su sexualidad con mucho recato y en secreto, como si fuera algo malo o sucio. La sociedad en general ve a la mujer como un objeto sexual, actriz secundaria de un drama de pareja. Sin reconocer los deseos, emociones y el gozo que puede llegar a sentir, no por ser mujer, sino por ser humana. Mujeres y hombres temen hablar de sus deseos y sentires, el sexo sigue siendo un tema tabú, quedando así la sexualidad en el rincón más oscuro de nuestras mentes o como un tema casi inexistente. Es importante poder hablar de sexo, y no hablo de la educación sexual y reproductiva, que sí es importante, hablo del deseo, del compartir y de querernos a nosotros mismos. ¿Cómo puede una mujer defender su cuerpo y su ser si no puede ni hablar de lo que siente? Si en su mente debe cumplir con un rol impuesto socialmente, si siente que debe acostarse con su pareja solo por obligación y que no lo disfruta. Es algo urgente dejar de reprimirnos los unos a los otros, dejar de juzgarnos por todo y por nada. Este video pretende generar conversación y acción sobre este tema, incomodar quizás, pero hacerse sentir, definitivamente.

Leti & Elis. Dos caras de un día en el valle de México.

Chile, México, France | 2018 | 29 min | Spoken Languages: English | Subtitles: English

> Pierre Arnold, Rosalía Camacho Lomeli, Lisette Soto Delgado

“Leti & Elis” nos sumerge por todo un día en la vida de dos mujeres que habitan el Valle de México. Ambas trabajan en el barrio colorido de Coyoacán, en el Sur de la Ciudad de México. Elis alquila y comparte su departamento que queda a siete minutos en bicicleta de su oficina, mientras que Leti, al igual que miles de personas, demora seis horas diarias viajando en metro y bus para trasladarse desde y hasta su vivienda de interés social que aún está pagando en el municipio de Zumpango, en el Estado de México. Este cortometraje de carácter etno-urbano presenta dos caras contrastantes de la vida urbana por medio de estas dos mujeres mexicanas. A través de sus actividades diarias y de sus reflexiones sobre su lugar de vida y la propiedad privada, se cuestiona la política de vivienda dominante en América Latina que incita a los trabajadores a comprar pequeñas casas en las periferias urbanas, mientras los elevados precios de los departamentos y de los alquileres en las zonas centrales de las ciudades los vuelven inaccesibles para la mayoría de la población. Este documental ha sido realizado y producido de forma autogestionaria por un colectivo multidisciplinario y multicultural (Chile, Francia y México) que vive en la Ciudad de México y trabaja desde la geografía, la sociología y el urbanismo las políticas de vivienda y las desigualdades en las ciudades latinoamericanas. Durante el año 2018, el documental ha sido premiado y proyectado en festivales cinematográficos en Lisboa (Portugal), Pachuca y Puebla (México).

Guatemala today. A son travelling back to his country to reveal a secret to his mother. A mother takes her son in, to whom she has not told the whole truth yet. Together, in this country ruined by its long civil war, they will finally try to come to terms with their past. Territorio Liberado is an emotional and lively view of the consequences of an armed conflict that lasted 36 years. This is not a film in which the focus of the story is on the political discourse. On the contrary; through the emotional and deep love for her political convictions, a story is told about a mother, who was a nun and became a guerrilla. This documentary is a testimony to the loving relationship between mother and son, telling about a childhood and adolescence in times of war and about the meaning of the word “commitment” to a woman born in Guatemala.

Felipe has spent 16 years living undocumented in Brooklyn, working low-paying jobs and collecting bottles to get by. He sends the bulk of his earnings home to support his family in Mexico, and longs to return and reunite with his wife and children. But when he calls them with the news that he’s decided to move back to Mexico, he discovers that they don’t return the feeling—they’ve squandered the money he’s sent, are now deep in debt and need him to stay in the US to keep earning. Heartbroken and betrayed, he now finds himself at an unexpected crossroads in his life. Blending documentary with fictional elements and shot over two years, a lyrical meditation unfolds as Felipe traverses the streets of Brooklyn, reflecting on family, home, loneliness and love, and pondering where his life will go next.

It is the story of a group of musicians who perform for the powerful drug cartels there. Their songs glorify the traffickers who have destroyed their country, and who sometimes threaten the lives of their loved ones. But in a world where the cartels wield the most power, do the musicians have any other choice? Located in the eastern part of the country, Olancho borders Nicaragua to the southeast. It has a rich history of agriculture and ranching. Olancho's dry golden valleys are perfect for cattle farming and its high lush mountains are ideal for coffee cultivation. The province has always been infamous for the independent, resilient spirit of the farmers who work its land. When international drug trafficking routes shifted a decade or so ago, Olancho became the strategic landing point for small aircraft carrying cocaine from South America towards the USA. Olancho's tough culture was well adapted to this new business and its cartels became some of the most ruthless in Central America. Olancho is where our musicians find themselves performing, living and surviving. In the documentary, they allow viewers to step into their gritty, complicated world and experience real life in rural Central America.

Nicaragua | 2017 | 88 min | Spoken Languages: Spanish | Subtitles: English

> Gloria Carrión Fonseca

In 1979 Nicaragua, a dictatorship that lasted decades has been overthrown and the revolutionary Sandinistas have taken over. As far as young Gloria is concerned, they are superheroes—particularly as her parents are on the front line of the coup and subsequent civil war. But the revolution takes its toll—her parents' dedication to the cause means they have little time for their children. Years later, their adult daughter turns to the camera as she touches on painful subjects relating to her parents. This results in candid, searing discussions about torture, tragic deaths, doubt, disillusionment and parenting, which always took second place to the greater good. In a way, Heiress of the Wind is a highly personal film, with Gloria narrating her own memories in voice-over. Extensive use of archive footage also presents us with a clear historical impression of a changing Nicaragua.

América Ladina: vinculando mundos y saberes,
tejiendo esperanzas

GUADALAJARA, MÉXICO / MAY 13 - 16, 2020

América Ladina, intends to take a step in the same direction as the title Nuestra América, instead of América Latina, which emphasizes the Latin tradition of this region, that is, its bonds with Europe, and hides or sets aside the participation of other populations such as amerindias or those of African origin in this process. The expression América Ladina, coined by the Afro-Brazilian intellectual Lelia González, seeks to explicitly expose the presence of these populations and mestizo populations in the social project of Nuestra América, and affirm this plural ancestry which has been disenfranchised.

Why “link worlds, knowledge and disciplines” and “weave hope”? First, because the marked conservative, exclusionary, misogynist and racist trends that characterize this recent “turn to the right” our region is confronting demand a strong, joint intellectual and political effort to explain and challenge them. Second, because the neoliberal rationality, which diffuses market values into all areas of life, has fragmented and broken the social fabric of the region and the recognition of our common humanity, increasing inequalities of class, gender, ethnicity and skin color. And, third, because in this context we need to promote the possibility of thinking about and interpreting different ways collective living and generating different collaborative practices to produce knowledge.

As the effects of this rightward shift on the continent materialize, producing a generalized despondency, it is worth turning our gaze and our expectations toward the teachings provided by many of the specific and every-day experiences of the closest neighbors of this América Ladina, in order to sustain the collective and individual, humane and inter-species life, preserving, repairing and prolonging it. They have interwoven social bonds, practicing the principles of solidarity, mutual care and reciprocal sharing. But, to what degree have these experiences impacted public policies, or have their voices been heard by the political decision-makers?

In the perspective exposed by the América Ladina Project, “Latin American” studies along with other forms of thinking linked to the struggle for depatriarchalization, emancipation and decolonization, may respond in new ways to both the intellectual and material questions and needs of this region.

The LASA2020 Congress in Guadalajara invites you to take some steps in this direction; connecting the international intellectual legacy with “ladino-amefricanas” realities and experiences, stimulating an in-depth analysis of the structure and dynamics of power and domination which includes the communications, both popular and counterpublics, on social media; promoting horizontal and interdisciplinary debate among Latin American scholars, and with the social movements; incorporating academics who focus on Latin America and communicate mainly or exclusively in English, in equal conditions, that is, without a privileged or dominant voice; promoting greater participation of indigenous intellectuals and those of African descent (women and men) in all sectors; improving opportunities for these intellectuals to participate in different academic activities that promote LASA.

We need to bring together worlds and knowledge that address the same problems from different perspectives and angles, the separation of which has been accentuated by the logic of the market and political trends to the right. We must weave hope, intellectual, social, ecological, political and cultural, in order to advance on the winding road toward a sustainable future in which América Ladina has lessons to share in survival and re-existence.

(March 2019)

Pink-Tide Governments: Pragmatic and Populist Responses to Challenges from the Right
(January 2019)

The Cold War and Latin American Studies
(July 2018)

Latin American Perspectives is a multidisciplinary journal that welcomes a variety of theoretical and political perspectives to analyze capitalism, imperialism, and socialism in the Americas and strategies to transform the region's sociopolitical structures. Most issues focus on a single problem, nation, or region, providing an in-depth analysis from scholars and participants in social change.

Latin American Perspectives is the most important resource available providing in-depth progressive analyses of developments in Latin America. It is the unmissable journal!

As its title suggests, the series is designed to advance the scholarly research of legal historians worldwide who seek to transcend the established boundaries of national legal scholarship that typically sets the focus on a single, dominant modus of normativity and law. The series aims to privilege studies dedicated to reconstructing the historical evolution of normativity from a global perspective.

Why Cuba?

Its rich history, diversity, art, and culture make it a fascinating classroom for any student. From the streets of Havana to the lush Viñales valley, Cuba provides unparalleled opportunities for students. Our programs bring students off the beaten path and into the heart of la vida cubana.

“Our trip to Cuba was exactly what I wanted for myself and the students. EEAbroad was excellent in regards to planning, executing, and arranging all of our wants for our music educational trip to Cuba. Can't wait to go back!”
